

CROW'S FEET

Life As We Age

A New Podcast Premiering June 15

CROW'S FEET PODCAST TEAM

Elizabeth (Betsy) Allen is a longtime freelance writer, editor, and writing instructor. Among her most recent creative works are two plays performed on the Between Acts audio theatre podcast and a short story featured on The Night's End horror fiction podcast. Allen lives in Virginia with her husband and a noisy Corgi. In her spare time, she frets about her children and grandson.

Lee J. Bentsch is a Veteran with a Master's in Communications. He is a career technologist and a writer. Lee writes on various topics with the intent to humor, inform and entertain readers.

Lee is a native Texan currently living north of the Houston metro area.

Catherine Dunn-Gilbert lives on a boat on Vancouver Island on Canada's left coast with her partner of over four decades and two dogs. After raising sixteen children, and finally mostly retired from work, she now has time to write and spend time with her many grandchildren.

Jean Ann Feldeisen is a writer, poet, musician and therapist, as well as a grandmother. She had her first poems published at age 72. She is a transplant from the Jersey shore to a farm in Maine, and has a psychotherapy practice in Washington, Maine. Follow her at jeanfeldeisen.com.

Jan M. Flynn's stories have won First Place and Honorable Mentions in Writer's Digest competitions and appear in Midnight Circus, The Binnacle, Noyo River Review, Far Side Review, Grim and Gilded and anthologies. Her novel excerpt, The Moon Ran After Her, won First Place at Mendocino Writers Conference. She's represented by Helen Adams of Zimmermann Literary, N.Y. Jan lives in Idaho with her husband Michael and their very patient dog, Molly.

CROW'S FEET PODCAST TEAM

Nancy Franklin is a retired health care executive with a love of writing and time on her hands. Currently, a Crow's Feet writer and editor published, as well, in the Los Angeles Times, Chicago Tribune, Slackjaw, The Belladonna, Points in Case, Old Lady Comedy and others. Find more of her writing at www.mirthquakes.com.

Rich Halten. Radio is in his blood, from a teenage DJ to GI broadcaster (American Forces Network/Europe) to Top 40 jock and sports/talk producer. Along the way, Public TV and 25 years as an ad agency creative. More recently, indie producer for public radio and podcasts, where he won a National Edward R. Murrow Award for Best Audio News Doc.

Nancy Peckenham is the founder and editor of Crow's Feet. She is a former cable news executive, local news reporter and documentary filmmaker with a focus on Latin America. She has published three books and has written about her life traveling the U.S. in a Sprinter van with her husband. When not on the move, she loves gardening and spending time with her two sons.

Warren Turner is a semi-retired, feline-loving, progressive United Church of Christ minister who is married to an active pastor. Duluth, Minnesota is their home where they enjoy Lake Superior a lot. They also love Lynx basketball and Twins baseball.